

The diagram consists of a central cluster of small black squares and circles arranged in a roughly circular pattern. This central cluster is enclosed within a larger square frame formed by black circles. At the corners of this frame, there are additional shapes: a small circle at the top-left, a small square at the bottom-left, and a small circle at the bottom-right. The top-right corner of the frame is occupied by a large black circle. The entire diagram is set against a white background.